Hawkins revises TJC programs

By LINDA HAWKINS

Institutional growth, recent resignations and retirement of key personnel have resulted in reorganization of instructional programs, said TJC President Dr. Raymond M. Hawkins last week.

"The purpose of such a reorganization is to provide the most effective leadership and span of management responsibilities," Hawkins said.

School of Arts and Sciences divisions will now include: humanities, physical education and recreation, science and mathematics and social science.

School of Technology divisions are: business and management, health science, information science and industrial technology.

Fine arts and communications have been merged to become a humanities division to be directed by Mary Waldrop.

Recreation leadership has been moved from Technology to Arts and Sciences to be part of the physical education and recreation division headed by Dr. Billy Jack Doggett.

Ray Bagwell remains director of social sciences division. This division is unchanged except for the addition of Bible courses which were formerly not in any instructional division.

Mathematics and science divisions have been merged into a single science and mathematics division.

The business division has been moved to Technology to join management in a new business-management division.

It includes: mid-management, banking and postal management, business administration and accounting, public safety technology, fashion merchandising and real estate management.

Secretarial science, renamed office occupations earlier this semester, has moved to Technology to join computer science in a new information science division!

Directors of these three divisions have not yet been named.

Charles Sowders will direct the industrial technology division which includes: air conditioning and refrigeration, drafting and engineering drawing, electronics, farm and ranch management, graphic communications, ornamental horticulture, petroleum technology and surveying and welding.

Viola Benevides remains director of the health science division which is unchanged in the new structure.

Reorganization resulted in reassignments, new appointments and a few vacancies.

Reassigned as program coordinators are: John Burket, geology, physics and astronomy; Marvin Davis, mathematics and engineering; Robert Glover, history and geography; J.W. Johnson, music and dance and Adelia Miller, vocational nursing.

Other program coordinators are: John Saleh, business administration and accounting, George Weisheit, public safety technology and Joe Staples, office occupations and Linda Zeigler, journalism/director of student publications (title changes).

Newly-appointed coordinators are: Rebecca Bibby, home economics; John Hays, foreign language; Monty Newman, drafting and engineering drawing and Larry Pilgrim, agriculture.

Coordinators are yet to be named in behavioral science, biology, economics, English and philosophy, government, speech and theater and mid-management, banking and postal management.

All changes go into effect at the beginning of the 1984-85 college year, Hawkins said in a recent memo to the faculty.

Senate revises bylaws

The Student Senate approved changes in the constitution and by-laws at the year's last meeting.

The oath of office, previously given at the beginning of the fall semester, will now be administered at the annual banquet. This gives officers power to act during the summer months if it becomes necessary, Senate President Tim Worley said.

Two sections on membership were deleted from the by-laws. Sections B and D stated one member of Texas Eastern School of Nursing and one representative from each vocational program with membership should be present at meetings.

These are unnecessary, said Worley, since Section C covers membership for any organization recognized as "on campus."

The by-laws were also amended for voting. Previously, only students taking 12 or more semester hours could vote in campus elections. The change allows voting by any student with proper identification.

The changes will be made and printed for next semester, said Worley. A board will be posted next semester, said Student Activities Coordinator Emma Lou Prater, so each organization will be able to tell where it stands on the point system.

Campus Capers will be divided into two categories in Fall, 1984, said Senate President-elect Phillip Ambrose.

Holley, Hudnall plan change of tenants

Holley Hall and Hudnall Hall will both take on a new look in the fall although neither is being renovated.

Holley Hall, a women's dorm, will house men athletes beginning next fall.

The idea of moving the men athletes to Holley Hall is to consolidate all athletes together, said Dr. Edwin E. Fowler, associate vice president and dean of student services.

Holley Hall houses 64 students, just enough room for basketball, football and tennis teams, Fowler said.

Women athletes will remain in Vaughn Hall.

"I am looking forward to the change because it is a lot closer to the school," said Freshman Football Player Reynold Leone.

Hudnall Hall will become a women's dorm next fall.

Claridge Hall, a privately-owned women's dorm, will become TJC property in September.

Remodeling will be the first project on the agenda for the new TJC property, said Fowler.

News Briefs

Dorm space opens

Dormitory space is still available for Summer Session I. Although plenty of women have signed up, a few spaces are available.

Only five men have registered for dorm rooms. At least 20 more are needed or the men's dorm will not be open, said Dr. Edwin E. Fowler, associate vice president and dean of student services.

Lewis and West Halls will hold 48 students each. The cost of a room will be $150 per session.

Dorm spaces will be filled on a first-come, first-served basis, said Fowler.

Applications can be obtained at the Student Affairs Office in the Student Center. They may be turned in to Student Affairs Secretary Pamela London.

Polls to open Saturday

Texans go to the polls Saturday to select their choices for president and other general races. Polls are open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

TJC students can vote at Wagstaff Gym. The Republican primary will be held on one end of the gym and the Democratic on the other, said Bookkeeper Angie Clemons. Students must be registered in Smith County and present a blue voter registration card to participate.

General primaries during the day involve all races except that of president. One can vote in either Democratic or Republican primary but not both because Texas is an open primary state. After the polls close presidential caucuses will begin in precinct conventions. These lead to the state conventions and selection of delegates for national conventions.

You must have voted in the general election during the day to be eligible to participate in the evening caucuses.

Jumpathon nets $1,000

The recent Jump-a-thon netted more than $1000, said Paul Carpenter, Physical Education Major Club president. PEM club sponsored the event which benefits the American Heart Association.

Patsy Knowlton took first place in individuals by raising $219.60, Carpenter said. Ramona A. Froeschl took second with $100 and Renee Bowie came in third.

The Apache Band with $140.40 won first place for organizations. Second place went to Zeta Phi Omega with $131.40 and the Cheerleaders placed third, he said.

Don Warmke jumped for the longest time with 35 minutes. James Spikes with 30 minutes was a close second.

A special thanks goes to Sigma Phi Epsilon, Carpenter said. They provided the music, he said, and "helped make it successful."

Austin donates books

Former TJC Student Richard Austin made a special presentation of horticulture books he has written to the Vaughn Library and Learning Resources Center. He presented the books to TJC President Dr. Raymond M. Hawkins yesterday.

Austin is an associate professor of horticulture and community development at the university of Nebraska at Lincoln. He is the son of Mrs. Elmer Austin Sr. of Tyler and the brother of Elmer Austin Jr. of Tyler. He is the cousin of Robert K. Peters II, history and government instructor at TJC.

Counselors relocate

Counselors anticipate moving their offices between mid-May and June 1 from Jenkins Hall to the Student Center. The Office for Development and College Relations will occupy the vacated counseling offices by June 15, said C.C. Baker, associate vice-president for development and college relations.

Space for new counseling offices is being prepared by enclosing a courtyard between the Student Center and the cafeteria, said Baker.

Arrangement of the new counseling offices will be more functional, with less crowding and with easier access for students, he said. Counseling offices should be relocated by the beginning of summer school.

Minor remodeling will prepare the Jenkins Hall offices for the Office for Development and College Relations which can use fewer offices and larger spaces than the counseling offices.

Occupying the Jenkins Hall offices will be: Baker, information services and publications office, alumni relations director, and support personnel for these offices.

"We will be pulling together from three different parts of the campus the people that work in the same administrative function," said Baker.

Former Belle director dies

Funeral services were held last week for former Apache Belle Director Eva M. Saunders.

Saunders, 77, began her career at TJC in 1948 as speech instructor. She later taught English and in 1963 was appointed Dean of Women and Belles director.

In 1976 Saunders retired from TJC after 13 years with the Belles and 28 years of dedicated service to the TJC community, according to the May 5, 1976, TJC News.

While Saunders was director the Belles were seen in performances coast to coast. Her last official appearance as Apache Belle director was the welcoming of then-President Gerald Ford in May 1976.

News announces 1984-85 editors

New editors for the 1984-85 TJC News will be Diane Dickerson of Tyler and Jennette Kress of Ben Wheeler, both are sophomore journalism majors. Tatia Rogers of Marshall, also a journalism major, will be assistant editor. All received Tom Anderson Jr. Journalism scholarships Wednesday for the sophomore year.

The current editors are all graduating from TJC. Elaine Reichard will continue work on a journalism degree at the University of Texas at Tyler. Michael Mitchell will work on a journalism degree at the University of Texas at El Paso. Rochelle Jackson will continue her studies in radio, tv and film at the University of Texas at Tyler.

"It is never easy to say goodbye to sophomores who have worked as diligently and well together as has this trio, but the new editors have demonstrated ability and interest in journalism. I am confident that they will accept their new responsibilities and grow into them. Watching that happen is the joy of my work," TJC News Advisor Linda Zeigler said.

"To those students whom I have known, laughed with and will remember long after I've forgotten your names, I thank you for being patient with an older student trying to make it the same as you," Reichard said.

"I'll always think fondly of the people I knew at TJC," Mitchell said. "It's been a blast."

"There has not been a day that I have not learned something new. My horizons have been widened greatly. I must admit this has been an experience I will never forget," Jackson said.

Senate awards pins, plaques

Student Senate presented awards for participation, perfect attendance and appreciation at the annual banquet Tuesday in the Student Center.

Sigma Phi Epsilon, Zeta Phi Omega and Physical Education Majors Club won plaques as outstanding organizations.

Cheerleaders, San Souci and Law Enforcement Students Association received perfect attendance awards.

Spring Blood Drive trophies went to Delta Upsilon, San Souci and Cheerleaders.

Alpha Delta Sigma, Phi Kappa Alpha and Sigma Phi Epsilon earned Field Day trophies.

Apache Ladies Coach George Cox received a plaque and individual trophies were presented to members of the basketball team who went to the national tournament.

Special awards were presented to Fine Arts Director Dr. Jean Browne, SAGA Director Mike Pettyjohn and Sig Ep Sponsor Fred Ginsberg.

Senate President Tim Worley, Vice President Kearby Elliott and Secretary Jennifer Shields received officer pins.

Worley, Elliott, Shields, Ross, Clay and Crisler also received officer plaques.

Cheerleaders Alice Deleshaw, Robbie Chance, Cindy Trahan, Elliott and Dowdy were given pins.

Clay, Shields, Jerry Rozelle, Sheryl Willis and David Garrett also received cheerleader pins.

Debbie Boyd, Vicki Mahon and Angela Watson earned medals as outstanding senators.

Older, younger students find harmony in college

By JANET TATUM

For years parents have pushed their children to get a college education. Now the tables have turned; today more college students than ever before are parents or grandparents. Students between ages 21 and 81 are returning for many reasons. Their reasons range from personal satisfaction to better job opportunities.

Approximately 677 of these older returning students attend TJC. Eighty-five percent of them attend at night.

The eldest male student is 81 years old, but the average age of men attending TJC is 25 years old. The oldest female is 77; the average age of women at TJC is 27.

"Twenty-six years of age is the overall student body average age, because of the increase of students 23 years and over and a decrease of 18 and 19 year olds straight from high school," explained Institutional Research Director Robert Cullins.

An informal survey of 18 students shows that an overwhelming majority of younger students do not find their older classmates intimidating or aggravating.

"There is a mutual learning process achieved from both sides of the generations," Education Major Bill Necessary said.

"It depends upon what class it is, day or night," Technology Major Kenny Terry. His night class includes predominantly working adults such as lawyers and business people.

Another student said some older students expect too much of others. When they ask questions about something in class, she simply and nicely tells them she didn't understand the work herself. Irritation comes when the older classmate continues the questions, "Why didn't you understand?" and "You should know, you're younger than I am!"

In classes returning students do not have an advantage over younger students, but they do have more experience about life in general, making them appear 'wiser,' the survey indicates.

"Now people are beginning to respect and listen to the older generation more than in the late 50s because of their experience," Sophomore Kay Peebles said.

Both Bonnie Bias and Cynthia Simones agree that younger students do not intimidate or aggravate their elders. They are pleased with the younger generation's dedication, consideration, friendliness, respect and discipline.

Older students believe their "traditional college age classmates have an advantage because the just-out-of-high school generation has been in school steadily for 13 years. They are more prepared than those who have been out for 20-30 years.

"I think the more mature students have a harder time adjusting, but their adjustment is based on what type of environment they come from—business (who would have no problem adjusting) or the housewife who would," Sophomore Jeff Smith said.

"I haven't noticed the relationship between the two in conflict because they work harmoniously to learn from each other," said Speech Instructor M'Liss Hindman. She enjoys having a mix of older and younger students because they contribute to class.

"I am not sure of the contributing factor that makes relationships work. Younger students have a sense of awareness that the older are here because they want to be and they want to learn, which may be a novelty in itself for students coming out of high school," she added.

Students think their instructors treat them all equal, regardless of age. Younger students said if they had to return to school at the age the older students are, they would definitely come back.

Responsibilities are barriers to their education for most of the older students because of work and family. They are trying to stay in school even if it means attending at night.

Potter updates climate control

The climate in Potter Hall may finally be kept at a comfortable temperature.

Texas Distributors updated the old thermostat to be set on an automatic temperature control system.

"We have tried to get the old thermostat to work correctly for the last two or three years. It took only two days for the thermostat to work right after we updated it to be automatic," Physical Plant Director Bill Parker said.

The main purpose of installing the new device was to make Potter Hall more comfortable for the students who attend classes there, Parker said.

The new automatic system will save electricity, Parker said, only if the thermostat is left alone.

The new system that was added to update the thermostat cost around $2,000 and is not expected to save a great deal of money.

"Money was no the concern," emphasized Parker, but that everyone throughout the building is comfortable.

Some building on campus still do not have an automatic control system on the thermostat.

Neither Jenkins Hall or Wagstaff Gym have the non-manual control. The idea of installing the system in these buildings has been discussed, Parker said.

Minority Talent Roster includes TJC students

Two TJC students have been named to the roster of Outstanding Minority Community College Graduates.

Bernadette Ates of Tyler and Nina S. Hutchings of Winslow, Ariz., have been notified of their inclusion in the roster which is published by the College Entrance Examination Board.

Ates, a John Tyler High School graduate, has a grade point average of 3.17 at TJC as a business and commerce major. Hutchings, also a business and commerce major, has a 3.03 GPA.

BSU takes mission trip

Fourteen members of the Baptist Student Union took a mission trip to Baltimore, Md., and Washington D.C. over spring break.

The primary purpose of the trip was to help repair a Baptist mission center in Baltimore.

BSU Director Bob Mayfield and his wife Pam Mayfield led the trip. Students making the trip were: BSU President Ronnie Wright, James Tomlin, Doug Valek, Marc Harper, Ron Gipson and Kathy Sanders.

Others were: Karen Sanders, Gina Guy, Billy Weathered. Jay

This rather inexpensive device is programmed to go from heat to cool in the summer and from cold to heat in the winter.

Parker advises students to keep the windows closed and, when moving the thermostat, to change it only 2 or 3 degrees. This will conserve energy.

"I have been pleased to see that the windows have been kept closed the majority of the time," Parker said.

"Students laid concrete, put in windows, wired doorbells, helped in the general clean-up of the Baltimore facility and participated in a Christian puppet show for local children," Mayfield said.

In addition to having a good time, Mayfield said the students learned to work together and saw another side of life in Baltimore's inner city.

"I think they learned everybody needs God," he said.

TESN graduates receive caps

Seventy-six graduates of Texas Eastern School of Nursing will receive their caps in two graduation exercises.

Twenty-five will graduate at 7:30 p.m. May 11 in Wise Auditorium as the final class of the three-year program, said Marie Jackson, TESH associate degree of nursing program coordinator.

Candidates for graduation are: Donna Barkley, Betsy Caesar, Kelly Clark, Linda Daniels, Sheila Daniels, Linda Forrest, Mary Garner, Patti Harrison and Lisa House.

Also graduating are: Kathy Ivison, Janis King, Beckie Lewis, Delia Mathis, Jonni Buford Moore, Sharon Morrow, Mary Praytor and Sherri Pritts.

Others are Teresa Rash, Nikki Reeves, Linda Riza, Valria Sanders, Chris Sharkey, Weda Staples, Joye Teague and Linda Wells.

The first class to receive associate degrees from TJC will graduate at 7 p.m. May 15 in Wagstaff Gym during regular commencement exercises, Jackson said.

Candidates for graduation are: Shirley Baley, Nerina Bell, Nancy Bronaugh, Tim Bugh, Paula Bure, Margaret Chappell, Frankie Cherry, Paula Clay, Becky Coleman, Charlotte Cook and Gayle Craig.

Also graduating are: Mary

Despain, Barbara Draper, Denise Gill, Kimberly Goodwin, Jan Griffin, Marcelene Hardy, Rosie Johnson, Ann Kelley and DeeAnn Kirkpatrick.

Also included are: Ella Lawson, Peggy Lewis, Debra Lofties, Laura Long, Roxanne Miller, Elizabeth Moran, Debi Joye Nix, Lynn Obuch, Frances Osborn, Tracy Patrick, Cathy Pepper and Mary Ann Pitts.

Others are: Lynda Reeves, Linda Renfro, Grace Rowland, Patricia Schear, Rhonda Sparkman, Connie Staines, Ruby

Stanton, Peggy Stillwagoner and Patricia Swearingen.

Also graduating are: Connie Tension, Joan Thompson, Sue Jean Thompson, Cheryl Tucker, LaDonna Warren, Susan Weaver, Merlene Williams, Phyllis Winder, Dorothy Work and Kathy Zeiger.

TESN was previously a private school, Jackson explained, but now is totally part of TJC. This is the reason two classes are graduating this year. In the future, all TESH graduates will receive degrees in two years.

900 register early, others need permits

Nine hundred students completed early registration and paid their tuition fees, said Admissions Dean Kenneth D. Lewis.

Those students who did not complete early registration and plan to attend TJC next fall will now have to wait until August. They may enroll during regular registration, August 21-24, or late registration, August 27-30, both in Wagstaff Gym.

Only those who have registration time permits will be allowed to register, said Lewis. Time permits may be obtained in the Admissions/Registrar's Office beginning June 4.

Permits will be issued on a first-come, first-served basis, said Lewis. "Those with earlier time slots are more likely to get a satisfactory schedule," he said.

Tuition fees must be paid when a student registers. Without payment, schedules will not be reserved.

"There are a few errors on the fall class schedule and some classes have been changed," said Lewis. "We hope to have an addendum to the schedule by June 4."

Copies of the schedule for fall courses are still available in the Admissions/Registrar's Office, said Lewis.

LOOK DEEPLY INTO MY EYES--Dana Austin, Silor Optical Company sales representative, presents Meadville, Miss. Sophomore Kim Richards with an Essilor corneal reflection pupilometer. She received the award as outstanding graduating student in the ophthalmic dispensing program. The instrument, worth $350, measures inter-pupillary distances and is needed for making eyeglasses.

Counselor outlines exam study tips

Tensions increase and fingernails become shorter as the time nears for final examinations.

Counselor Betty Plyler suggests a plan to help students prepare for exams without nailbiting.

Plyler says the best preparation for examinations is daily study. "If you wait until the last two days, you really don't have much of a chance," she said.

"You need to be prepared." Review material that is covered in the course and plan an exam study schedule, she suggests.

Ask the instructor what kind of exams he or she gives and study before the test, but not all night, Plyler advises.

"Get plenty of rest; you cannot do well if you are exhausted," she said.

Group studying in small groups is profitable and a good opportunity to predict what type of questions the instructor will give. Group studying should be a serious attempt.

"Compare what other people think is important material and what you think is important," Plyler suggests. "As someone answers a question, use some of his/her ideas to make your answers more complete."

Some other tips are:

- Review highlighted and important ideas in your textbook.
- If you have not organized your notes, organize them.
- Review all past tests you have kept. If there is some area of study that you have not mastered, concentrate your efforts on that material.
- Finish all semester assignments such as research papers and lab assignments, so that your time will be more relaxed.

674 to graduate in Wagstaff Gym

Commencement exercises will be at 7:30 p.m. May 15 in Wagstaff Gymnasium. Dr. Jean S. Browne will be the main speaker. TJC President Dr. Raymond M. Hawkins will preside as marshall at the ceremonies.

Dr. Patrick Thomas, Board of Trustees president, will welcome the candidates and guests. Dr. James T. Garrett, senior pastor of Marvin United Methodist Church, will deliver the invocation and benediction.

Graduates include approximately 633 degree candidates and 41 candidates for proficiency certificates, said Registrar Mary K. Neill.

Dr. Raymond Van Cleef, vice president for educational and student services, will certify the degree candidates and Hawkins will present the diplomas.

The wind ensemble directed by Band Director Jack Smith will play for the ceremonies.

Faculty members also participate in the ceremonies.

Their gowns are designed to indicate different degrees.

Gowns for associate and bachelor's degrees have pointed sleeves.

Gowns for master's degrees have elongated sleeves. The doctoral degree gowns have bell-shaped sleeves.

Master's and doctoral gowns include hoods. Hood lining and velvet trim indicate the discipline and college where the wearer obtained the degree.

Associate, bachelor's and master's gowns have no other trim, but the doctoral gown is faced down the front with black velvet and has velvet bars across the sleeves.

Browne speech sets precedents

By MICKI WHITE

Fine Arts Director Dr. Jean Speller Browne continues to set precedents even as she prepares to retire. She is the first woman as well as the first faculty member ever selected main speaker for TJC commencement.

Browne, who has been at TJC for 36 years, will retire at the end of the semester. She said she decided it was time for "new blood in the department. It needs some modern ideas."

"Doc," as she is affectionately known on campus, first taught here in 1948, the first year TJC was at the present campus. Former President Dr. Harry E. Jenkins asked her to take on some overloaded speech and English classes. She stayed and eventually worked up to head the speech and theater program.

Browne reminisced about how the theater was one of her dreams when she began here. Through her efforts, the dream came true and, to her astonishment, the Board of Trustees named the new little theater Jean Speller Browne Theater.

"I still can't believe it!" she said.

Browne remains vague about her commencement address but she offered her advice for success: "Never give up on what you want to do."

"Good enough is never good enough," she added.

Though retiring from TJC, Browne is not retiring completely from teaching. She plans to teach a class on theater history at the University of Texas at Tyler.

LEG BONE'S CONNECTED TO THE THIGH BONE--Health Sciences Division Director Viola Benevides and a student prepare one of the displays for the Health Science Job Fair held yesterday in Wagstaff Gym. Representatives of numerous health science occupations were on campus to discuss job prospects with graduating students.

Students juggle 3 jobs

Some unusual women attend TJC classes. They are women who can handle life as a mother, student and wife.

Two of the triple-talented women are sophomores Elaine Reichard and Maria McMullen.

Reichard is a mother of three children ranging in age from 13 to 15. She considers motherhood the most important of her three jobs.

Her husband is next and school ranks last. She says that the kids need her most but her responsibilities all really intermix.

Her family is "really supportive," Reichard says. The kids help around the house and her husband encourages her in her determination to attain a master's degree in journalism.

Currently holding down 13 hours, Reichard is a TJC News editor and is on the Dean's List. Last semester she was on the President's List.

McMullen agrees that being a mother is paramount. She has a little bit more to handle because she has six children. The youngest is four.

McMullen, who went to college both before and after getting married, feels she is getting more out of her education because she is older and can relate what she has experienced and seen to her studies. She takes nine hours and makes As and Bs.

Now that McMullen is married and older, she explains she is free of peer pressure that influences single students. She just "does her own thing," she says.

Both women admit going to school has put pressure on their marriages. "Not much, but it is there," they agree. The pressure is mainly because much of their attention is directed toward school instead of only toward the family.

14 to be cheerleaders, Prater announces

Fourteen cheerleaders were selected after tryouts last weekend, said Student Activities Coordinator Emma Lou Prater.

They include: Kristi Ball and Alice Deleshaw, Denton; Falesha Brown, Longview; Robbie Chance, Houston; Rusty Duke, Center; David Garrett, Rockwall and Eric Gentry, Waco.

Others chosen are: Susan Helms, Jasper; Rodney Johnson, Carlisle; Byron Mays, Pittsburg; Wade Meriwether, Mount Pleasant; Gary Nunn, Tyler; Heidi Williams, Fort Worth and Sheryl Willis, Carrollton.

The cheerleading class and traveling squad will be selected from this group, said Prater. Others will be alternates, she said. Selection will be made before cheerleading camp Aug. 6-10.

Contestants were judged on: entrance, smile, projection, voice, motions, skills in double stunts and pyramids, jumps and poise.

Judges were Prater, Susan Garrison, Campus Nurse Zelda Boucher, Kay Logan, an instructor from Stephen F. Austin State University and a cheerleader from SFA.

"Being a cheerleader is an exciting position. It carries with it recognition, popularity and being in the spotlight," said Prater. "It also requires responsibility, hard work and a personal desire to achieve your best."

Six sophomore cheerleaders are leaving TJC at the end of the semester: Marquette Clay, Angie Dowdy, Jennifer Shields, Cyndi Trahan, Jerry Rozell and Kearby Elliott.

Head Cheerleader Clay, a John Tyler graduate, plans to attend the University of Houston where he will try out for cheerleader after the required one semester at-tendence there.

"Being head cheerleader for two years makes me feel that I must get involved in school spirit. My philosophy is to live life to the fullest," said the communications-prelaw major.

Dowdy, Shields, Rozell and Trahan plan to attend SFA.

"The aspect that I enjoyed most in cheerleading was performing double stunts with partners because in high school we had an all girl squad," said Trahan.

"Our squad here is like a family and we learn how to get along with others," she said. "I also enjoy instructing at the summer camps for junior and senior high schools."

'All Stars' compete

Fitness "All Stars" are the best 25 men and women from two 20-minute walk, jog and run sessions in March and April. They range from former high school competitors to a grandmother who has never competed in any sport before.

Debbie Rhodes, who won both women's sessions, is a nursing major at TESN. She competed in high school with a best of 5:24 in the mile. Rhodes, a regular runner, ran a total of 4,400 yards in her second attempt.

Troy Saldana again won the men's division with a total of 6,142 yards.

The top five women's division winners who have qualified for T-shirts are: Rhodes, Linda Bayonne, 4,375 yards; Marcia Ellsworth, 4,315 yards; Linda Renfro, 3,645 yards; Lisa Langford and Margaret Cook tied with 3,175 yards.

Other women's winners include: Jessica Knoff, Peggy Kinney, Kathy Pepper, Shelia Williams, Yvonne Loller, Mimi Pratte, Janna Smith, Penny Pittman, Sallie Polk, Janice Allen and Kay McFadden.

Top five men's division winners who qualified for T-Shirts are: Saldana, Mickey Lewis and David Curran tied with 5,590 yards; Kerry Novak, 5,678; Jay Shawrer, 5,565 and Ed Brown, 4,900.

Other men's winners include: Joe Flores, Paul Saunders, Terrence Curtis, Sammy Kitinya, Phil Cooper, Greg McKethan, Derrick Jones, Danny Lewis and Damon Richardson.

Others are: Bret Dodgen, Mark Taylor, Mark Womack, Roy Hanson, William Wood, Ric Lowrimore, Bill Pope, Bill Lewis and Jim Cannon.

Apaches select 17 recruits

Defense is the main concern in this year's Apache football efforts, said Assistant Football Coach Delton Wright.

The Apaches hope to beef up the defensive line with Tackle Lacy Victoria from Ball High School in Galveston. Victoria is the most promising of 17 young recruits signed, Wright said. With the loss of standouts Henry "Thrill" Hill and Kip Cooper, the Tribe has some big holes to fill.

Of these recruits signing, only five are offensive specialists because almost the entire offensive starting unit will be back next year. Place Kicker Matt Banks from Dallas should give the Apaches a much needed three-point threat, Wright said.

Returning linemen are: Center John Newell, Guards Jeff Hensley and Reynold Leone, Tackle Brad Stringfellow and Tight End Mark Hood.

Also returning is Star Runningback Ronnie Ducksworth, who gained over 1900 yards last year behind the offensive line.

Also coming back next year is Starting Quarterback Brent Chism.

Athletes who signed with the TJC Football team are: Robert Fallin and Vince Weldon of

Cox announces 6 recruits, 9 players to return

Next basketball season the Apache Ladies will have eight players returning and six recruits.

Returning are: Shelia Bryant, Carthage; Clara Davis, Farraday, La.; Sonya Dickerson, Goodrich; Lee Ann Doffing, Hardin; Lynn Harvey, Cordale, La.; Delisa Hodges, Houston; Charlene James, Dublin, Ga. and Aquila Johnson, Colfax, La.

Recruits are: Dale Ivey, Brookshire; Tammy Reescano, Hardin; Jill Cox, Speedwell, Tenn.; Joni Walker, Irving; Pam Webb, Denton; Karol McClen-dan, DeRidder, La. and Manager Lori Husted, Irving.

Head Coach George Cox is expecting another winning team for his second year at TJC. "Last year's season record was 32-3 and we're going to do our best to top that," said Cox.

To mold another successful team, Cox said, improvements will be done on various parts of the game. A lot of stress will be put on the outside shooters because the opponents will be trying to block out the inside shooters like Harvey, Bryant and James.

"Now that I have more experienced players returning, we'll be working on executing more complicated plays," Cox said.

Last season opponents averaged scoring 66 points per game. "This is not a bad record but we plan to lower that average by playing tougher defense," Cox said. The ultimate defensive goal is to play two halves of good strong basketball instead of one, he said.

As far as depth is concerned, Cox proudly stated, "I have some of the best reserve players in the nation."

The ultimate goals for next year are to polish old techniques, have a good pre-season, win conference and return to nationals and win this time, said Cox.

Cox and his team are very proud of their accomplishments this season.

They include: being undefeated in Wagstaff Gym and in conference play with a 24-game win streak, ranked No. 2 in the nation and No. 1 in offensive play, averaging 90.2 points a game. The Ladies won 92.4 percent of their games.

Individual standouts include two All-Americans, Charlotte Reescano and James; four all-conference players, Harvey, Roxane Birkenfeld, James and Reescano; all-conference honorable mention Hodges and Coach of the Year Cox.
